VOLUME 40 NO. 24

Authorized as second class mail, GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY AUGUST 27, 1947

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

New Regulations For The 1947 Hunting Season

Reduced bag limits and shooting seasons on migratory game birds, such as ducks and geese, and a two-week season on cock pheasants confined to a small area of southern Alberta were announced by the provincial game branch. They will be effective this fall.

The announcement said there would be no shooting season this year on upland game birds, such as pheasants, chicken, Hungarian or bush partridge and grouse in the province.

Shooting season on migratory birds, ducks, geese, rails, coots and Wilson snipes, will extend over the same period throughout the province—two weeks, starting on September 20 until one half hour after sunset November 11. This is the shortest migratory game season in the province for many years.

The bag limit on migratory birds will be seven, per day, 25 per season; ducks seven a day, 56 per season; Wilson snipe, five a day and 56 a season.

The new regulations provide that no one have in his possession at any time more than 15 geese, 14 ducks, 40 rails and coots and 20 Wilson snipe.

The shooting season on cock pheasants will be restricted to the southern Alberta area in southern Alberta and will not include the Calgary district for a period from Oct. 10 a.m., October 18 until one hour after sunset November 1. The cock pheasant bag limit will be three a day and 18 for the season.

As usual there will be no shooting allowed during the season on Sunday. Shooting of hen pheasants will be banned.

The small area in southern Alberta, open for cock pheasant hunting is roughly south of the Red Deer river between Drumheller and the Saskatchewan border and an area around the Blairmore area.

Shooting of cock pheasants will only be allowed after 10 a.m. of opening day of the season in this sector.

Big game licenses fee for residents will be $5 and for non-residents game birds $25. Non-resident game bird license will be $5 and non-residents of Canada $25. Residents of Manitoba and Saskatchewan who hold licenses in their own provinces will be able to obtain Alberta licenses for the same $25 fee.

Special schedule of fees has been drafted for outfitters guides and others connected with the game business. Non-resident game bird license will be $10 and non-resident hunting in certain restricted areas $25. Royalties of $25 will be levied on many big game animals.

It is one of the greatest paradoxes of life, that without fire, we could not live, yet it is one of the greatest destroyers of us as a race. Fire is a natural home and industrial enemy. It does destroy them by the thousand, every year. Fire creates the heat essential to life but fire also kills hundreds of persons every year. Yet, by exercise of more care we could reduce the incidence of fire to a minimum. The money loss was about $200,000. Imagine such a loss when

The assurance given by Finance Minister Abbott that the surplus move by the British government to prohibit the privilege or right of converting sterling exchange into dollars has quieted the fears that were being expressed by many in the country. The news, however, has left a deepening impression of the absolute inter-dependence of all countries in the world. The difficulty is not only that Britain is in a similar situation, but any progress to recover her status will affect us in the same position or worse. It is claimed that much of Britain's trouble stems from the chaotic and almost lawless conditions on the continent where she formerly had a large and profitable trade.

There is a growing realization that, for Canada, aid to Britain and continental Europe must be considered, first and foremost, as philanthropy, but as necessary expenditure for the welfare of our own economy—for the benefit of our own people.

There is considerable interest in the proposed visit to Canada by the first rank industrialists of the Chinese People's Yuan Ministry. It is stated the purpose of the mission is the study of democratic institutions and methods and the working of parliamentary procedure. The Chinese will visit Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto and will spend some days at the National Summer conference sponsored by the Young Liberal Federation, at McMichael University, Hamilton, during the first week in September.

The Chinese Mission of four leading figures is also in the nature of a goodwill visit for the promotion of friendship and better understanding of Canada and the United States and Canada which is taken as an encouraging sign here.

Observers are watching closely the developing crystallization of opinion among the public in regard to the arrangement of all parts in the tax arrangements necessary to ensure the full program proposed by the federal government for social security and public welfare. The recent meeting of the Canadian Council of the Public Opinion—a non-partisan organization—showed that a large section of the people of Ontario believe that an agreement with the federal government is essential to the prosperity of all Canadians. A divided Canada will be greatly handicapped in its effort to cope with the difficulties in the divided world.

Many eyes are on the British Columbia miners, a laundry labor union in a city on Vancouver Island, is being prosecuted, as a responsible entity, for violation of labor laws. It is likely that the case will be decided in the fall. The miners insist that officials to that body are still permitted to the Privy Council. The C.C.C. in B. C. has urged that it is right and proper to defy and to break the law.

Both economic and political liberty are necessary if we are to continue our progress to prosperity and happiness. It is recognized by all that the rule of law must be maintained. It is also to be hoped that the rule of law will be observed in democratic elections, when the people elect their representatives.

But this is all—new laws must be made to meet new conditions in order that the freedom of the individual is always protected. As study and research in the field of communication becomes more rapid, so only and consequent abuse of power becomes more general.

Two approaches are put forward—the first is re-education, it is easy to teach and has been taught in many instances. In practice in many places it has not only failed to correct abuses but has created new ones and has failed in the production of goods required for a better standard of living.

The better way is to take away power to exploit in price and to function against the economic liberty of the individual. Under the combines investigation act much progress has been made in Canada and new laws must be passed to meet new threats

IT LOOKED for a while as if a temporary financial problem in the family might keep Mary from finishing "High". If she had to quit school to help the family income that would have meant good-bye to her hopes of becoming a nurse.

But her dad is, starting her final year. Did her Dad suddenly come into some money?

No... and yes. He consulted his bank manager, who told him how the bank, through personal loans, often helped people to meet just such situations. Arrangements were made, and now Mary will take up nursing after all.

In 1946 Canada's banks made half a million personal loans to Canadian men and women.

Laugh to be healthy, say those versed in medical science. There's a warming, stimulating uplift quality about cheerfulness, just as there is a sense of coldness and depression in gloom. There's nothing as infectious as laughter and it's one type of contagion which all welcome. National Parks

Delightful camping areas are found in the national parks of Canada, which offer unique opportunities for holidays off the beaten path. In addition to the spacious public camp grounds within these parks, a number of organizations have established permanent camps.

There are several types of annual camps in the parks, varying in size and accommodation. The smallest usually consist of two or three tents, with accommodation for twenty or thirty. The largest camp can accommodate 500.

The campers are using the public domain of the national parks to do one of Canada's most important jobs—training the young citizens. Most people like to play in groups. The group life is good in almost every way, youth, and can be a factor for either good or evil in their lives. Many of these youth organizations have leaders who are in the medical fields, and there are many young school teachers who devote holidays and spare time to this worthy work.

"As the swig is bent—so the tree grows!" Most youth organizations follow a training programme which includes team games, swimming, boating, life-saving first-aid, handicrafts, campcraft, and map using. Developing the team spirit through games helps to train the campers in self-government, good citizenship. Life saving and first aid train young people to act spontaneously in cases of emergency. Map using develops resourcefulness in getting from place to place, even in unfamiliar territory.

The young of today are also being educated in the knowledge of the outdoor classroom. National park wardens are available for lectures and demonstrations in connection with warden-service activities, protection of wildlife, interpretation of the forests, and fire fighting. Forestry gives the youth a new kind of experience, and a proprietary interest in the natural resources and their welfare. The young people are also given the chance to leave the main highways and trails to explore remote areas, the services of park wardens may be secured. Opportunity is therefore afforded these groups for personal contact with the men who help to guard and protect the national parks of Canada.

Summer camps are giving young people the experience of living with their fellows in healthy, wholesome, surroundings. The young organizations sponsored by the government in their members a love and care for their country, a consideration for other people, and a spirit of unity. Vacations in these camps will also be a stimulus to health, and help build better citizens for Canada, and for the world.

Health Column

Pointing out that a sick child is incapable of taking full advantage of educational facilities, national health authorities remind parents that their co-operation is required to make the most of the school year. When the children go off to school again, parents will expect teachers to be qualified to instruct them. A the same time, the teaching staffs will hope that parents have done their part and will send children to school physically, as well as mentally, capable of study.

Believe to have our children grow up to enter the world of affairs with less impressionistic scholastic honors than as neuroticists whose whole life may have been warped in the quest for book learning. This advice to parents painted on the wall of a Gleichen school, painted out that intensive school work can lead to eye strain, with consequent harm to the nervous system, and recommend that children's vision be checked frequently.

When you are well is the time for that medical check-up, say experts. Good health is the best preventive, and mental well-being may be enhanced by careful examination before you become ill. "Although you may feel perfectly well, a checkup may reveal that there are some little things, such as a slight soreness in your eyes, which require attention if you are to retain close liaison with the doctor at all times."

Thanks to men of science, protection above price and without cost, is to be had today against three of what used to be prevalent diseases—diphtheria, whooping cough, and smallpox. Suggesting that Canadian consult the family physician about these and other health conservation facilities, the Department of National Health and Welfare notes that the finest way to keep life healthy is through the expenditure of little more than thought and care.

From every aspect of view, the farming class of this country is in better shape now than at any period. More people own their homes and farms; more are free from the yoke of bondage inflicted by burdensome debts. The farmer is a self-sufficient, each year by making a comfortable living for their families; more are waking up to the necessity of giving their children better educational advantages, and, with prosperity and contentment seem to prevail throughout the country.
